WALL STREET, SUNDAY, March 19, 1871.

TRADE THE PAST WEEK shows the increasing activity which is inseparable from the season, no matter what the derangement in or varied opinion as to values. The expectation of a heavy trade this spring bias fair, from present indications, to be fully realized. The recent reduction in railway freights has broughl a great many of the Western merchants into town, and buyers are plentiful and disposed to take large lots.

THE MONEY MARKET. The more confident tone in business circles is due in a great measure to the belief that the Treasury Department will, in furtherance of the refunding of the national debt, contribute liberally from its resources to the volume of money in circulation with a view to keep ng the money market easy. Mr. Boutwell, by hearding a hundred millions of money in the Treasury, has been the great "bear" of the country, but his vanily and ambition are both at work how to compel him to to be a great "bulk." The indifference with which the new loan was originally received by the public has only stimulated him to more zealous efforts, and while the public show a natural reaction from their first indifference-an indifference that was natural when everybody was waiting for somebody to make a start-the vast resources of the Treasury are to be used, according to rumor, in modifying the situation so that the new lean may be offered under advantageous circumstances. A disregard of this consideration has occasioned considerable uneasine s as to the course of the money market the ensuing few weeks, the impression existing that owing to the general activity of money in the vicinity of April 1 the rates on call loans in Wall street might run up to figures beyond the legal interest. It is possible that money may be worth six to seven per cent within the next fourteen days, but as to stringency there is no cause for apprehension. sion to attempt the production of extreme activity, but with the future discounted as largely as it has been already by extensive loans on time for thirty to sixty days, and with the known policy of the Treasury, there is no real reason for alarm.

Gold was steady most of the week, but at the close became heavy and declined, when it began to be whispered that Mr. Boutwell would buy or redeem with gold at least $25,009,000 of the public debt in April. We do not know the authority whispered rumors, but they received credence enough to induce a general selling out of "long" gold on Friday and Saturday. The Treasury programme for next month contemplates, it is fur ther said, the abolition (which we have often adof purchasing five-tweaties with currency and the substitution of the direct exchange of gold for the bonds. The highest price during the week was 111 ), and the lowest and closing price 110 %. THE STOCK MARKET.

The activity of the Stock Exchange recalls the earlier days of paper taffation, and is doubtless the natural consequence of the same condition of things which then existed. The bulk of paper money is just as large now as when the war closed, and until Congress contracts the currency or the country grows up to the active use of every dollar of paper now in existence, it will be impossible to prevent the grand food and ebb in prices at the Stock Exchange, which seem to succeed each other with the regu larity of the seasons. Prices were unnaturally depressed last winter by the war in Europe, which ollowed remotely the gold panic of 1869. The tide promises now to surge as much the other way and produce one of the most active and buoyant campaigns ever known in the street. This seems to have started from "nard-pan" and while there is no doubt that many shares on the hist are now selling above their intrinsic and average value, the market has been so oversold on this theory and in anticipation of a "break" or a "panie" at every step that the successful passage of the 1st of April, or even the ensuing week, by the "balls" will cause a rout of the "bears," and force them to buy stocks from the "nulls" at whatever figures the latter choose to dictate, The marker has, therefore, the trength of an underlying enormous short interest. The "great American bear," who advised the public hast winter that "Wall street had two hundred mulions of stocks, all for sale," is nearly distracted at the loose and incantious manner in which the nutlic bought the "sheers" which he offered for sale and soid before he had taken the precaution to be their owner. Doubtless he will remember

THE COMMODORE'S ADVICE. never sell what you haven't got." The itamediate future of the stock market pids fair therefore to present even more attractive features than it has during the remarkable season inpassed. Two enormous armies are on the eve o pattib. The Wellington and Napoleon of stocks confront each ether. Next week or the succeeding one at most, will witness their Waterioo. Who is to be Wellington and who Napoleon?

THE BANK STATEMENT. The weekly statement of the associated banks is very unfavorable and reflects the operation of artificial influences to assist a monetary crisis in connection with the natural ontflow of money to the rural districts at this season, when the country banks draw on New York for funds to be employed in the "April settlements," The the occasion as devoid of any cause for alarm, and in view of the interests which they have at stake their ratiocination is not likely to be hasty or devold of sagacity. There is an immense short interest in the stock market, and some powerful operators are leagued to produce a decline. They must succeed now or go to the wall. Should the 1st of April once go by without a break in the stock market they will be overwhelmed by the enormous summer rise which may be looked for in the Stock Exchange. With peace in Europe and with the Secretary of the Treasury determined to make the money market easy, even if it requires him to part with every available dollar of gold in the Treasury in excuange for bonds, the speculative spirit is thoroughly aroused and will lead to marked results before the close of the year. (From the New York Herald, Jan. 5, 1871.

There is a sort of sober second thought coming over the minus of capitalists as to the real sinanon of adatas in the country, and the conviction is growing strong that the "bears" overdid their work in representing everything in so gloomy a light during their recent violent attack upon the stock market. Especially is the feeling increasing when it is remembered that the authors of the current defamatory theories of the financial situation were the strongest kinds of "buils," when Northwest contain was seiling at 94, Northwest preferred at 163, kock Island at 126, Lake Shore at 102 New York Central at 102, Reading at 109, Ohio and Mississippi at 42 (this stock, they said, was going to 75), and St. Paul common at 74. The very men who preached the purchase of stocks at the above figures were counseling the public a tew weeks ago to sell Northwest common at 63, Lake Shore at 90%, New York Central at 89%, Ohio and Mississippi at 26% and St. Paul at 48%. There is a backneyed joke in Wall street about selling stocks when they are high and taying them when they are low. The panisosphers who are now lecturing the public on the subject of the humense demoralization of moneyed investments give the public advice exactly the contrary of that contained in the lamiliar old jest of the street.

From the New York Herald, Jan. 10, 1871.)
The present low prices of the dividend pay From the New York Herallo, Jan. 10, 1871.)
The present low prices of the dividend paying stocks challenge investment, and money is slowly going into them. Hence we shall probably find, from day to day, spasmode rises as the entire January interest comes upon the street. If the immense amount to be disbursed—estimated at nearly $75,000.00—is not all reinvested the balance will be in the street for the use of such speculative combinations as may choose to employ it in furtherance of their plans.

From the New York Herald, March 3, 1871.]
The attraction of the street still centres in the Stork Exchange, and the progress of business in that department develops new leatures of interest every day. The speculators who last winter thought the short road to wealth hay in selling the stocks of other people are in great extremity, now that people are willing to pay so much more for these stocks than they burried to sell them at. When the Heraldo at that time warned the public that prices were on "hard pan" it was only giving advice derived from a knowledge that the brovers' others were fined with orders to buy for investors who knew that prices were depressed by speculation far below their real standard. Since that warning was given in this column the market has advanced from ave to fitteen per cent (March 3.) The present natural reaction is assisted by the exceedingly hope-ful promises of a prospective speedy adjudication of the Alabama chaims and the removal of all obstacles to the further progress of our career as a great wealth-making country. Not the least significant feature of the time is the refention on this side of the Alabama chaims and the removal of all obstacles to the further progress of our career as a great wealth-making country. Not the least significant feature of the time is the refention on this side of the Alabama of the vast sums of foreign capital when it was supposed would go back to Europe on the return of peace. At present it would seem that not only will this money remain with us, but that namerous enterprises for procuring capital in Europe which was suspended by the war will be revived, with the effect of bringing still larger amounts of foreign wealth into the country. Considering the various circumstances attending the present struction it is not difficult to understand the extraordinary activity and booyancy of the stock market. Easy money and a prospect of an abundant supply for the reat of the spring and summer; the free speculative movement in commercial careles; the revival o abundant supply for the rest of the spring and sum-mer; the freer speculative movement in commercial circles; the revival of trade; the changed current of the feeling in real estate operations; the early spring promising as it does abundant crops and a speedy recall to employment of all the various industrial classes; and the settlement of the great war in En-rope, are influences combining to render the public mand energial and confident.

PRICES THEN AND NOW. Since the above was written we have had the introduction of the new loan by Secretary Bontwell, whose plans, it is confidently reported, contemplate if necessary, a partial redemption of the outstanding five-twenties in order to make a market for his new bonds. The following comparison of prices last winter and now will show how correctly the Herand interpreted the signs of a 'spring rise" in the stock

The value of foreign commodities remaining in warehouse December 31, 1870, was $55,020,635, as compared with $51,763,413 in 1869. It will be noticed that there is a marked improvement in the disproportion between imports and exports in the last as compared with the previous calendar year; the excess of imports in 1861 being $68,692,422, and in 1870 only $2,214,493. An examination of the above tables also shows that over 73 per cent of our entire foreign trade in 1869, and over 79 per cent in 1870, were carried in foreign vessels The values of the principal commodities imported

INFANTICIDE.

Another Plea for the Foundling Asylum-A Mother Throws Her Child into a Sink-

Caroner's Investigation.
In the case of Honora Johnson, alias Mrs. Hunt, the woman arrested at 149 Washington street, on Saturday afternoon, on the charge of throwing her infant child into the sink, Coroner Hermann yesterday commenced an investigation.

Alice Powers deposed that the prisoner had Ance rowers deposed that the prisoner had been in her employ as domestic for ten weeks, and had only been six mentas in the country; the witness on Saturday suspected something wrong with Mrs. Hant, who peremptorily denied being the mother of a babe, but so satisfied to the contrary was the witness that she went to the sink with a Mrs. Hasson, and, on making a search, discovered the legs of a child sticking up, and caused the remains to be removed; Mrs. Hunt was then told by the witness that it was a great shane she had thrown her child into the privy, to which she made no reply.

she had thrown her child into the privy, to which she made no reply.

Officer Murphy, of the Twenty-seventh precinct, who arrested Mrs. Hunt, deposed that she denied to him bring the mother of a child, but, at the same time, confessed that she had thrown something into the sink, and if it was a baby it was only six months old; but on taking her to the Coroner's office she said the child was seven months old.

Dr. John Beach made a post-mortem examination on the body, which showed that it was fully developed and

HAD BEEN BORN ALIVE.

In the doctor's opinion death was caused by suffocation. The investigation is not yet concluded in the meantime the prisoner is under the care of Miss Foster, Matron of the City Prison. Mrs. Hunt says she is a respectable married woman, and that her husband is soon expected to arrive from Ireland.

PROBABLY MORE "KIDD."

Jamaica's Gold Field-Continued Yield of Doubloons-Supposed to be "British Goold." More of the Spanish doubtoons have been found in the woods of Mr. Van Sicklen, in Jamaica, L. L., where some men are engaged in unearthing the roots of some men are engaged in their tining he roots of trees. One of them bears date 1712. Many years ago an old negro, who lived in the vicinity, tena-ciously contended that a box of gold had been burded in the woods during the occupation of the island by the British troops in the Revolutionary war. Owing to his advanced years people called nim a simpleton, but some did dig in the field very near where the doubloons have been found. The dirt is now passed through a sieve, so that none will be lost.

For some time Henry Brown, an employe of the Hoboken Ferry Company, has been in the habit of sending sums of money to his mother who resides in Pictou, N. S. About two months ago he sent her in Pictou, N. S. About two months ago he sent her two letters in succession containing some twelve dollars of Canadam money, but the remittances never reached their destination. Of course the sum does not appear large except to a poor, aged woman who has no other means of subsistence. Brown made known the case to the Postmaster at Hoboken, whose sole response, as Brown alleges, was, "How do I know whether you ever seat that letter or nott" Brown, who earns his money very hard, determined to bring the matter before the public and expose the system of thievery which seems to exist somewhere between Hoboken and Nova Scotia.
